

Monday 19th April 2021

Pilot Path announces UK expansion and new partnership with Flightpath Flying Club.

Pilot Path UK and Flightpath work together to open doors to the aviation industry for future commercial airline pilots in the United Kingdom.

Pilot Path UK and Flightpath have today announced the launch of a partnership which will provide Pilot Path students in the UK with the opportunity to complete their PPL and Hour Building in Wolverhampton and the greater Birmingham area, England. Located at Wolverhampton Halfpenny Green Airport, Flightpath strive to offer quality flight training with the student at the heart of each program.

Pilot Path Limited
6-9 Trinity Street
Dublin 2

T: +353 1 620 2842

Pilot Path are a flight training coordination service headquartered in Dublin, Ireland and bring together various Approved and Declared Training Organisations to deliver all aspects of the necessary training for commercial flying. Pilot Path offer an alternative managed modular training route offering the opportunity for those wishing to pursue a career as a commercial airline pilot the opportunity complete their flight training in a high-quality manner with unnecessary frills removed to ensure the most cost-efficient route to flight training.

The Pilot Path management team encompasses aviation experts with proven experience in global airlines and a financial team specialising in credit control within Ireland, UK and Europe. All Pilot Path training programs are overseen directly by commercial pilot mentors in Ireland and the UK meaning students can be confident in their flight training journey.

Commenting on the announcement, Pilot Path Operations Director, Christopher Curtis said:

“We are delighted to announce our UK expansion and partnership with Flightpath Flying Club which will help establish even further links between the numerous high-quality flight training schools and institutions in Ireland, Europe, USA and now the United Kingdom through Pilot Path. Flightpath will give our prospective students across the Wolverhampton, Birmingham and surrounding areas the opportunity to train under pilot path’s managed modular, and cost-efficient model all while under the tutelage of our commercial mentor pilots. We are very proud to have Flightpath as one of our first UK partner schools and are confident they will add to our vision at Pilot Path of making flight training accessible to all and allowing those from all different backgrounds to realise and pursue their dreams and potential of becoming a commercial airline pilot”

On behalf of Flightpath Flying Club, John Royce said:

“We are very much looking forward to getting started with Pilot Path and welcoming their students to Flightpath as they begin their journey to becoming commercial airline pilots. At Flightpath, we believe we have the perfect facilities, ample aircraft, and a fantastic team of dedicated staff and skilled instructors who will work in tandem with the Pilot Path team all to ensure students receive the highest quality training and are best placed to continue on their journeys to a career in aviation.”

Pilot Path training programs are available to view at <https://pilotpath.ie/training-packages>

ENDS

Christopher Curtis, Operations Director – Christopher.curtis@pilotpath.ie or 00353 (1) 6202842